

2.2.1

The institution assesses the learning levels of the students and organises special Programmes for advanced learners and slow learners

Advanced Learners

After completion of admission process, lists of advanced learners are prepared on the basis of performance of students in the previous examinations and also on the basis of teachers' assessment of individual students. After admission work, and after commencement of regular lectures, due and extra attention is paid to the students on the basis of their learning abilities. Extra lectures are arranged by the teachers to cater to the needs of advanced learners. Extra lecture hours are used especially as interactive lecture hours. Special attention is paid to the needs of advanced learners during regular and extra lectures and also during interactive sessions. Holding practical demonstration, conducting industrial tours, field trips and field studies. The college library has arranged the books department-wise and subject-wise so as to enable the students access the books and avail them to cater to their needs. In the classroom, advanced learners are given the task of delivering the lectures. This measure, it is believed, will benefit advanced learners better.

Slow Learners

After completion of admission work and process, lists of slow learners are prepared on the basis of performance of students in the previous examinations and also on the basis of teachers' assessment of individual students. After admission work and after commencement of regular lectures, due and extra attention is paid to the students on the basis of their learning abilities. Extra lectures are arranged by the teachers to cater to the needs of slow learners. Extra lecture hours are used especially as interactive lecture hours. Special attention is paid to the needs of slow learners during regular and extra lectures and also during interactive sessions.

Slow Learners

After completion of admission process, lists of slow learners are prepared on the basis of performance of students in the previous examinations and also on the basis of teachers' assessment of individual students. After admission work and after commencement of regular lectures, due and extra attention is paid to the students on the basis of their learning abilities. Extra lectures are arranged by the teachers to cater to the needs of slow learners. Extra lecture hours are used especially as interactive lecture hours. Special attention is paid to the needs of slow learners during regular and extra lectures and also during interactive sessions.

Programmes

Below mentioned strategies are employed for improving the performance of the slow learners:

- Repetition of a topic and its revision up until the slow learners are satisfied.
- Encouraging students to participate in classroom interactions.
- Personal guidance (keeping in mind the individual learning levels) and periodical class tests.
- Delivering a resume of the lecture at the end of each and every lecture.
- Using the available teaching and other aids.
- Holding practical demonstration, conducting industrial tours, field trips and field studies.
- Simple and easily understandable notes are prepared and distributed among the students so as to cater to the needs of both categories of students.
